

The 19th Nordic Workshop

HOW TO PRACTICE EVIDENCE BASED HEALTH CARE

Norwegian Institute of Public Health
June 4 - 7, 2018 | Oslo, Norway

The workshop

The Norwegian Institute of Public Health promises an exciting programme and hard work during this workshop on how to practice evidence based health care. We will focus on how to: formulate relevant questions, search for literature, critically appraise the validity of evidence and use the evidence when making relevant well-informed decisions in health care.

Relevant for my work?

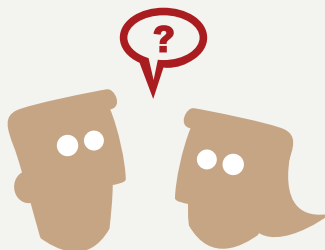

Through this workshop you will learn how to improve the use of evidence from research in your work. This is useful whether you are a clinician, researcher, educator, decision-maker, librarian or journalist.

Note that although this is a Nordic workshop, the plenary sessions and most of the written material will be in English.

The teaching is a mix of plenary sessions, small group sessions, and independent study founded

After this workshop
you should be able to:

Formulate questions arising from your own practice

Identify relevant evidence

Critically appraise the validity of evidence

Use evidence to make well-informed decisions on a problem-based approach to learning. 20 teacher supervisors will be available to 90 participants.

Registration fee

Early bird registration fee (before March 1): NOK 5900
Normal registration fee (after March 1): NOK 6500. Discount for groups of participants from the same institution (limited numbers of groups available).

Former workshop's feedback references:

"A great combination of plenaries, groups and independent study!"
